Buyer Demographics

The following list outlines recent buyer groups in the Langley new home marketplace. These groups have been identified by Altus at presentation centers, project launches, events and through interviews with sales staff and developers active in the target area:

- Local first time buyers - These buyers are attracted to affordably positioned, low-rise product in the Langley area. It is common for some of these buyers to receive some financial assistance from family in order to afford a down payment
- Price sensitive move up buyers - Typically young families or couples from the Fraser Valley, Tri Cities or the local Langley area - At the height of the market, buyers from other more central municipalities looked to Langley for affordable ground oriented product types. These buyers are looking to upsize into townhome or small single family product types
- Local Fraser Valley and Langley downsizing end users - Couples in their 50's, 60's and 70's - Looking for affordable single level woodframe condominium product with balconies, mountain or valley views and located within a village setting and within walking distance of amenities and services
- Ethnic Investors – These buyers typically are "attracted" to the area through existing relationships with developers or sales and marketing groups
